As a reminder:

To travel to Canada you must hold an eTA (Electronic Travel Authorization) if you are entering Canadian territory by air. This authorization will not be required if you are traveling to Canada by land or sea. For travellers not eligible for the eTA and therefore subject to a visa, the latter will be mandatory regardless of the mode of entry into Canadian territory.

Please note that no eTA or visa will be issued on arrival.

To be able to travel to the territory of Canada, the traveller must bring his passport with, if applicable, an eTA or a visa. When you enter Canadian territory by air, a return ticket may be required.
